

GLUE AND GO Costumes for Kids presented by Holly Cleeland

Author Holly Cleeland from North Hollywood, California will discuss how to build prize-winning costumes out of household items such as milk cartons, marshmallows, and coffee cups! She will demonstrate & construct three costumes for members of the audience during her presentation. Parents, children and everyone interested in creative, low-cost costumes for parties or playtime are welcome to attend.

At 4 years old Holly was fascinated as her Mother built the Dragon for Disneyland in her front room. Being the youngest child of 5, Holly was often taken to Movie backlots or television sets where her Mother worked for the Motion Picture Industry as a costumer. Always being around a creative environment stimulated her creativity. Her career path has taken her to many creative venues in which she has designed billboards, painted signs, planned party themes with large props, painted sets for Warner Brothers Studios, and created her own Lawn Cheers business with motorized, themed yard displays.

Holly has been interviewed on Rosie O'Donnel show, HGTV's Carol Duvall show, NBC's weekend Today in New York, Good Day Live and other local news programs. Her book, Glue & Go Costumes for Kids: Super Duper Designs with Everyday Materials features 28 clever ideas for easy-to-make costumes made with basic tools such as scissors & a glue gun and easy-to-find materials such as plastic cups & plates, cardboard boxes, fabric & foam core. She makes it seem easy to transform a kid into corn on the cob, a cupcake, pencil, racecar, monster, basket of flowers, birdhouse, hot air balloon, plate of bacon & eggs, or other unique, oversize, eye-catching costumes. In her spare time, Holly is working on more costuming books such as Glue & Go Monsters, Party Starters, and Glue & Go Family Costumes.
